IN THE BABY'S EYES.

What is the dream in the baby's eyes As he lies and blinks in a mute surprise, With little wee hands that aimlessly go Hither and thither and to and fro; With little, wee feet that shall lead him? God Knows.
But a prayer from my heart like a benison goes.
Brimful of happiness, yonder he lies.
What is the dream in my baby's eyes?
That we have forgotten so long, long ago Bathed in the dawn light, what does he see That slow years have hidden from you and me?
Out of the yesterday world he get The things that in living he soon shall forget.
All that is hidden beyond the blue skies.
What is the dream in my baby's eyes?
Speak to me, little one, ere you forget What is the thought that is lingering there yet.
Where in the land where the preveries meet.
Waiting and waiting the morning to greet?
You wee, funny bundle, who only will blink, What do you wonder, and what do you think?
Bright as the moonlight asleep in the skies.
What is the dream in my baby's eyes?
—Tom Cuddy in Minneapolis Messenger.

NEVER ATE FOREIGN MEAT.

It Doesn't Pay to Be Too Sure Until One Knows All the Facts.
A certain Major Brown, who made it his boast that he never allowed American or colonial meat to be served at his table, recently visited an old comrade in Liverpool. One night at dinner a most delicious mutton appeared, to which the major did ample justice.
"Ah," he observed, "I wish that my butcher in London would send me stuff like that, and yet he deals only in the best British meat."

"Well," said his friend, "as a matter of fact you have been eating New Zealand mutton. But it's only fair to say that I get it from a friend who is a large wholesale importer."

"By Jove, you don't say so?" exclaimed the guest. "I wish he'd tell me where I can get the like in town."

"We'll go and see him tomorrow," said the host. The visit was duly paid to the meat monger, who smiled when he heard the Londoner's eulogy and explanation.

"Tell me," he returned after listening to the explorer's remarks, "in what part of London you reside, and I dare say I can give you the address of a retail butcher who will supply you with exactly the same sort of mutton as that which you like so much." The major handed him his card.

"Ah," observed the importer, "there's the very man within two streets of your house. We supply him with all his meat. Here's his address," he added, handing a slip of paper to the seeker after succulent joints.

The major read, the major started, the major frowned, the major, truth to say, cried vengeance, and no wonder, for the address was that of his own butcher, who dealt only in home produce.—London Sketch.

The Bottle at Ship Launches.
Down to Charles II's time it was customary to name and baptize a ship after she was launched, sometimes a week or two after. The old Tudor method used for men-of-war was still in use.
Peppys' "Diary" shows that. The ship was safely got afloat, after which some high personage went on board with a special silver "standing cup," or "flag-gon" of wine, out of which he drank, naming the ship and pouring a libation on the quarter deck. The cup was then generally given to the dockyard ship-wright as a memento.

When did the present usage of naming and baptizing a ship before she is sent afloat come in? I trace the last explicit mention of the old method to 1604, when the Royal Katherine was launched (see Peppys). The first mention of smashing a bottle of wine on the bows of an English man-of-war that I have found is in a contemporary newspaper cutting of May, 1780, describing the christening of H. M. S.
Magnanime at Deptford, but nothing is hinted that it was then a new custom.

To Fly in Your Dreams.

There is a peculiarity about the flying dream that seems to be constant. Of all those whom I asked about the matter and who are conscious of the flying dream at all not one has ever known himself to make any high flights in his dreams. One always flies low, with a skimming manner, slightly, but only slightly, above the heads of pedestrians.
And one's critical attitude in a dream toward one's own performance is always interesting to note, both in regard to this particular class of dream and even more toward one of the other classes. It is an attitude that is well brought out in "Alice in Wonderland," where Alice is made to exclaim or to think while she is falling, "How brave they will all think it of me at home not to mind a great fall like this!"—Long-man's.

Logical.
"What is a furrier, Tommy?" asked the teacher of a pupil in the juvenile class.

"A man who deals in furs," answered Tommy.
"That's right," said the teacher.
"Now, Tommy, you may tell me what a currier is."

"A man who deals in currs," was the unexpected but logical reply.—Chicago

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a rundown invalid. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

A year ago the only market of any importance for Gallic coal outside of that consumed by the Santa Fe Pacific Railroad company and the small local trade of Albuquerque, was west of here as far as Los Angeles. Today trainloads of the black diamonds go east and south, as well as west as far as the San Joaquin valley and before long our superior grade of coal will be supplying a portion of the San Francisco market.—Gleaner.

sale by McGrath Brothers.

Billy Stiles, who has won for himself such an unenviable reputation recently, is an old resident of Pinal county, having formerly lived on a ranch near Florence and now claims his home in Casa Grande, where his wife and mother reside. He is 29 years old, tough and wiry, an expert horseman and pistol shot, and with a wonderful amount of nerve. Now that he has joined the "wild bunch" he will prove a dangerous man to arrest. The writer has known Burt Alvord since he was a small boy and has never known him to be bad except when he had a lung was the best of it—a very different class of man from Stiles, who will take even chances with anything that walks. Alvord has killed several men, but generally in a cowardly manner that could have been avoided. Both men have been peace officers, which seems to be the class from which des-perados are recruited in a measure.— Florence Tribune.

His Life—As Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death.
In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief.
I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all throat and lung trouble.
Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00.
Trial bottles at all druggists; every bottle guaranteed.

An original, unique and inexpensive ejectment proceedings was installed against a citizen of Globe one day last week which consisted of taking advantage of his absence, throwing his forty years' accumulation out of the house and locking it up. He reiterated by an equally unheard of method of reinstating himself by climbing on the roof, throwing the foresaid accumulations down the chimney and sliding after them.

Played Out.

Dull headache, pains in various parts of the body, sinking at the pu-of the stomach, loss of appetite, feverishness, pimples or sores are all possible evidences of impure blood. No matter how it became so it must be purified in order to obtain good health.
Acker's Blood Elixir has never failed to cure scrofulous or Syphilis poisons or any other blood diseases. It is certainly a wonderful remedy, and we sell every bottle on a positive guarantee. Eagle drug mercantile company.
